Southern Cross Primary School has built a ‘Culture of Care and Understanding’. Everything that we do or say is based on endeavouring to make our school a happy and safe place for our students, staff and parents. The programs that we have introduced over the past four years have built a foundation that enables a positive and productive learning environment. Every staff member and each student in this school strive daily to maintain this environment and our academic results are testimony to the educational commitment of us all. Restorative Justice Practices, Circle Time and Tribes have enabled us to create a strong and happy culture where students are inspired to be curious and learn. Our ‘Attitudes to School Survey’ shows how strong our student welfare practices are and how engaged our students are with learning. Again we are well above State and National averages in our results and every year we share and discuss these results with students to ensure we are fully aware of any areas of concern.
